

STORES NOT TO CLOSE UP ON TOMORROW

An advertisement which stated that "all stores" were to close at 12 o'clock tomorrow was not authorized by the dry goods and clothing stores of the city. The announcement should have made clear the fact that the grocers and butchers were to close at noon, for the principal dry goods stores and clothiers were never consulted on the subject and have had no intention of closing.

The announcement in the morning paper that Wright's store is responsible for remaining open, is entirely wrong. The proprietors of the principal dry goods stores were all very emphatic in their statements that they had not been consulted and had no intention of closing.

"These careless announcements regarding the closing of our stores must stop," said one merchant today. "It is an injustice to our out-of-town trade as well as ourselves. The daily papers are now being read by hundreds of rural residents who will not come to town because of some published statement which is frequently sent out without proper confirmation; the result being loss to the merchants affected as well as unnecessary inconvenience to many who look to Ogden for their supplies."

FUNERAL OF JOHN M'GRATH

The following words of consolation are from Sacred Heart academy:

Last Sunday morning, when Mother Church in her liturgy was commemorating the great Saint Joachim, there passed from earth a noble soul to whom we may well apply the words of eulogy bestowed upon the spouse of Saint Anne—"Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord; he delighteth exceedingly in His commandments. He hath distributed, he hath given to the poor; his justice remaineth forever and ever."

Those who knew John McGrath will agree that he was a faithful follower of this Scriptural model. Coming to Utah thirty-five years ago, he was employed for more than a decade by the Central Pacific road at Toano, Nev., where he held the position of foreman in the roundhouse. Later, he engaged in the dairy business, and for twenty-five years displayed the same industry and integrity that marked his earlier days. Though suffering for some time from the dread malady which terminated his life, he was always cheerful, generous and kind, possessing the rare, saving sense of humor that rendered him a genial acquaintance. For the past two months he had been obliged to retire from business and after some weeks of intense suffering he ended his good fight as he felt he had so long and so faithfully headed, was calling the Catholics of St. Joseph's parish to the divine sacrifice of the mass.

The funeral services were held this morning at St. Joseph's church. Mass for the repose of the departed soul was said by Reverend P. M. Cushman who paid a well-earned tribute to his faithful parishioner. Reverend J. Ryan who attended Mr. McGrath during his illness and administered the spiritual consolations of the sacraments blessed the grave and gave the final benediction.

The death of a truly just man is a many-sided loss—to the city in which he resided, to the religion he professed, to his immediate family and to his surviving friends. Mr. McGrath was a law-abiding, earnest citizen, a devout, practical Catholic, a devoted, sacrificing husband, and a sincere, loyal friend. To the saddened but resigned little widow who for two score years has walked faithfully by his side, the Sisters of the Holy Cross at Sacred Heart academy extend their deepest sympathy.

This devoted couple have ever been ardent friends of the institution, sharing joyously in our successes and expressing regret for our trials. No religious feast day ever passed without a floral remembrance for our chapel, and we were aware of the domestic anniversaries of the family by the festive donations we received for Mr. and Mrs. McGrath maintained the royal way of celebrating by giving instead of receiving. May an all-generous Father reward the dear deceased as He alone can, admitting him to eternal joy and may the faithful partner of his earthly sojourn know the blessed consolation of heaven, while waiting a reunion beyond the grave.

"God rest his soul," she will murmur low
"In that other clime whither all must go.
And Mother of Mercy, grant to me
Thy protection and care through the years to be.
That when for me the death-bells ring,
And mourning friends my requiem sing,
My soul may fly to God and thee
At rest for all eternity."

SENATORS TO AID WILSON

Administration Will Be Backed Up in the Mexican Affair—Possibility of Intervention

Washington, Aug. 18.—At midnight the hour set by President Wilson for the expiration of the term given in his demand for recognition of Secretary of State Bryan was met in his Columbia road home and President and his secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty, had retired in the White House.

The International News Service over the telephone, called the president of Secretary Bryan and informed the clerk, George Wade, of the news in Mexico City and was told that Secretary, even were he to be awakened, would make no comment on tonight. Wade said he did not feel justified in awakening the secretary.

A like message to the White House was referred by the operator to Secretary Tumulty. When asked he said:

"No comment will be made on news at the White House."

A dispatch from Nelson O'Shannessy, received tonight, was taken to the White House by Secretary Bryan where he conferred with the president over the new situation. The president was awakened for this purpose in view of the rejection of the proposals by Huerta. It is understood now that the president, in order to lay the case before the whole people, will make public Tuesday his instructions to Mr. Lind and also the answer of Huerta.

The reply of Huerta is similar to the answer that was given to the previous administration by President Taft, which answer was construed by officials of the state department, saying to the United States that might as well mind its own business and let Mexico alone.

Senators of the foreign relations committee do not feel that the diplomatic negotiations have been reached. Senator Bacon, chairman of the committee, hints at the possibility of intervention even, but not until exhaustion of diplomatic measures. He said tonight:

"Some headway has been made in this matter. When Mr. Lind went to Mexico it was reported that he would not be received. Huerta has listened to him and that much is accomplished. There is still open the way to further advances. What can be accomplished in one way may be accomplished in another."

DOG FANCIER IS BANKRUPT

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Francis G. Porter, the broker, whose Alredale are principally the cause of his bankruptcy, asserted he had $50,000 on the blueblooded animals. Their care was one of the drains on his finances, he said.

Mr. Porter stated that three years ago he invested $100 in dogs since that time has spent $50,000 on them. At one time he had more than 130 of them in his kennel.

"There were 28 in your kennel when the receiver took them over, but they are worth $25,000."

"They should bring $25,000, there is a good market for them," said Porter.

Attorneys representing creditors estimate that Porter's liabilities exceed $200,000. The dogs are principal assets.

CONTRACTORS MUST PROTECT THE SUB

Washington, Aug. 19.—The treasury department announced today that it would insist that contractors public buildings hereafter must protect the financial interests of the sub-contractors as work on the structures progressed.

In the past the department has experienced trouble in pushing work new buildings because contractors their monthly requisitions for funds failed to make proper payments sub-contractors. This practice, the department proposes to end and will try out its new policy in the erection of the new $400,000 federal building at New Haven, Conn.

DOUBLING UNCLE SAM'S DEPOSIT

Washington, Aug. 19.—Depositors in which the government keeps money to pay current expenses have more than doubled in number since February 1. On that date there were 440 depositors in various cities. By day there are 990. The increase is the direct result of an order by Secretary McVeigh that all drafts government funds be drawn on the treasury. This necessitated an increase in the depositors so that the funds would be more easily accessible. The fifty million dollars deposited in the agricultural fund this month will further add to the number of depositors and Uncle States Treasurer Burke expects there may be more than 1,200. Many, however, will only be temporary.

WILL DO AWAY WITH PERSONAL IDENTITY

Washington, Aug. 19.—Indefinite identity of the many officials of the postoffice department was wiped out today and henceforth official correspondence will identify the heads of divisions.

Postmaster General Burleson prohibited the addressing of his ordinals as Mr. Brown or Mr. Jones. If Mr. Brown happens to be the assistant postmaster general, Burleson wants him addressed as "the first assistant," and if Mr. Jones is the fourth assistant he wants Mr. Jones so addressed, solely, and not Mr. Jones. The rule applies even to routine memoranda within the department.
